

For the students, faculty and officials of Goddard College to “honor” and individual who coldly assassinated a law enforcement officer should shock the conscious of every Vermonter. While I cannot legislate against the type and level of disrespect Goddard’s action displays to Danny Faulkner’s family, and to the men and women of the law enforcement community, I, as one member of Vermont’s General Assembly, can apologize for the school’s callous action. This utter disregard for the feelings and memory of a fallen officer, veteran, son, husband, and brother should never be forgotten.
